

Your Shut Down Partner

The profitability of any production facility, regardless of the process involved, is directly linked to the reliability, efficiency, and effective production time of the Plant.

Any shutdown obviously has significant economic consequences for all stakeholders including Shareholders, Management and many of the Operational Staff, who's remuneration packages often relate to Plant reliability. These financial consequences therefore heap huge pressure on all the people involved. Any shutdown can be very unpredictable, but careful planning can help minimise the commercial risks. In a Planned shutdown, it is important to order all items required in good time, and to expedite deliveries to avoid slippages which could be very damaging to the outage timings. In a planned shutdown situation, it is important that purchase orders are placed with vendors who can be trusted, not only to supply the highest possible service levels, but also to provide ongoing accurate information and commitment in support of the client needs. At GFI we pride ourselves on the speed of our response times to client enquiries, and constantly review our reaction times with our bespoke in-house software systems. When we are favoured with valued client purchase orders, we immediately confirm the details with our suppliers, and regularly expedite to ensure timely delivery is met.

Order Tracking

Our business systems not only allow us to provide regular reports to our clients, but also allow our clients to review the latest real time information on any of their open orders via our web tracking system accessed through our website www.gfienterprises.co.uk
